Draft Library Master Plan Information Session Scheduled

New Braunfels, Texas — The City of New Braunfels invites all interested community members to an information session with the Library Master Plan consultants on Monday, March 18, 2013 at 6:30 p.m. The event will be held in the Library meeting room at 700 E. Common Street. City Council approved the appointment of a team of library consultants for the project, which is being led by Komatsu Architects, with Godfrey's Associates and Carson Block as principal specialty area advisors.

“We are thrilled to be working with this great team and are excited to learn what the possibilities are for additional library services and facilities.” said Gretchen Pruett, Library Director. “We want to be ready for the next decade of growth as more people call New Braunfels their home. The community has an opportunity to look at this vision for the future and give us feedback.”

The meeting will consist of a presentation by the consultants on the master plan process, followed by questions and input from the assembled citizens.
