Library Teams With New Braunfels Railroad Museum

New Braunfels, TX – The New Braunfels Public Library will welcome the New Braunfels Railroad Museum’s model trains during free morning storytimes on December 9th, 10th and 11th. Model train exhibits will be on display after each of those sessions.

“These electric model trains are a portable exhibit that the Railroad Museum volunteers set up. Each tabletop has a train and a scene from current or historic New Braunfels. New Braunfels Railroad Museum volunteers will be on hand to answer questions as they operate the models,” said Library Director Gretchen Pruett. “We know how much children like trains, especially during the holiday season, and this will be a fun addition to our always popular storytimes.”

For more information on this program contact Youth Services Librarian, Kit Ward-Crixell, at 221-4319.
