City Seeks Members for Boards and Commissions

New Braunfels, Texas — The City of New Braunfels is seeking residents to serve on various boards and commissions.

“Each month, a variety of positions are made available to people interested in being involved in their local government,” said City Secretary Patrick Aten. “City residents can help shape the future of New Braunfels by bringing their ideas, expertise, and energy to a City board or commission.”

Currently, there are 24 slots to choose from with the following boards seeking members:

- Arts Commission
- Building Standards Commission
- Community Development Advisory Board
- Construction Board of Appeals
- New Braunfels Housing Authority
- New Braunfels Partnership Committee
- Landa Park Golf Course Advisory Board
- Zoning Board of Adjustment

A complete list and description of all boards and commissions can be found on the City’s website at www.nbtexas.org/BoardsCommissions and a current list of vacancies, updated monthly, can be found on the City’s website at www.nbtexas.org/BoardsCommissionsVacancies.

Applications may be made online at www.nbtexas.org/BoardsCommissionsApplication.

Aten noted, “With more than 27 boards, some positions have specific requirements, such as residency or particular professions, while others are more general and have fewer requirements. But with more than 200 opportunities to serve, there is not a shortage of ways for people to become directly involved in their local government.”
