Jennifer Cain Named City's Capital Programs Manager

New Braunfels, Texas — The City of New Braunfels has selected Ms. Jennifer Cain, CCM, as its new Capital Program Manager.

Ms. Cain has been employed with the City since 2012 in the role of Capital Project Manager. During her tenure with the City she has been the project manager on many major initiatives including: Fischer Park development, Landa Park Golf Course improvements, City Hall renovation, Police Department facilities improvements, Central Texas Technology Center expansion, New Braunfels Regional Airport taxiway extension and the Railroad Quiet Zones.

Prior to joining the City, she was employed by Brookstone, L.P. in Houston, Texas as a Project Engineer and was the construction manager for eight projects totaling $50M over the course of two years. She holds a Bachelor of Science in Construction Science from Texas A & M University.

“I’m excited to announce that Jennifer Cain has been selected as the City’s new Capital Programs Manager,” said Bryan Woods, Assistant City Manager. “Jennifer distinguished herself through her work as a Project Manager while overseeing some of the most complex and high-profile construction projects in the history of the City. Aside from ensuring the successful completion of the remaining projects from the 2013 Bond Program, Jennifer will be crucial in the development of the proposed 2019 Bond Program.”

Ms. Cain was recently named a Rising Star of New Braunfels in the inaugural 40 Under 40 recognition program. Previously, she has received a 2016 Employee of the Year Award from the City, and is a currently a member of the Leadership New Braunfels Class of 2018.
